1. Introduction and Welcome

After three consecutive seasons being headquarters of the Intercontinental Rally Challenge (IRC), this year, 2013, the 37th edition of Rally Islas Canarias “El Corte Inglés” takes a step further and becomes part of the very select club of qualifying rounds for the European Rally Championship (ERC). Once more, our position in the calendar allows us the honor of opening the calendar of the Spanish Championship, as well as the regional and provincial ones.

The effort made by the Organizing Committee to achieve a place in which is already the second international rally championship more important of the world, has been huge. Perhaps the greatest in its history. But I'm sure that when the podium ceremony finishes on Saturday March 23 evening, all the canarians will feel proud to have represented Spain in a competition like the ERC. And I am convinced that the collective of racing fans will be even larger, because we are going to see extraordinary pilots.

For this endeavor and the results it has produced, I would like to thank all those who are part of the Organizing Committee and especially the figure of its promoter Luis Monzón. Together we have achieved goals that seemed impossible, and the next challenge is already here: making that the Rally Islas Canarias “El Corte Inglés” becomes an iconic and essential test of this championship, which in this 2013 revives thanks to the commitment of the FIA and the ERC.

I do not want to end my acknowledgments without stopping in Carlos Gracia's figure, the first supporter of this rally when we became part of the IRC and now first responsible of our incorporation in the European Rally Championship. He did it in his role as vice president of the International Automobile Federation; now, back in front of the Spanish one, I know that as responsible for the Rally Islas Canarias “El Corte Inglés” we owe the test to be an example and a reflection of what a rally of the ERC must be. With this determination we have worked these months.

Of course thanks to all our sponsors, both public and private, because in a situation like the present, without them it would be impossible to get ahead with an event of these features. And good luck to all the participating teams. Some of them already know the Canary Islands of its stage in the IRC and, believe me, they are the best tourist ambassadors we can have, because they are lovers of our islands, their landscapes and their sections. The fans, just ask them to collaborate and enjoy, making the Rally Islas Canarias “El Corte Inglés” special one more year.

Thanks to all,

Germán Morales
Organizing Committee Chairman

21. Information about Gran Canaria

Climate in Gran Canaria

The Gran Canaria's Climate is characterized by an average annual temperature between 18 and 25°C, with an estimated annual rate of 2.700 hours of sunlight, and a fresh and humid wind, coming from the Azores' Anticyclone, the trade winds.

Due to the unusual relief of the island there can be found a great variety of microclimates. On the southern slopes of the island, in coastal areas, the climate is dry and sunny almost all year round. In areas of higher altitude, the influence of the sea is reduced and the clouds are detained by the mountains; that produces great variations of temperature from the temperature of Midlands or valleys and subtropical forests to the highest areas, where the temperature can reach 0°C. This allows people to enjoy completely contrasted climates in two different areas of the island.
